The Purpose of Photography/Videography/Film	Opting In/Out	Respect for Privacy
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Photography/videography produced for official University business is used for various recruitment media and/or websites related to your school or program, the office of admissions and the University at large. • If you have been asked to participate in a photo or video opportunity, you may choose to opt out but must make that known to your professor and/or to media staff present. In many cases, we ask for permission in advance. Your professor may ask you to sign a model release. Your signed model release is regarded as confidential information. • You will not be identified by name when your photo/video is reproduced, but we may mention your major, year in school, and hometown. If you are the subject of a news story or award presentation, we'll ask permission to use your name. • Commercial use by outside parties is prohibited. However, the University occasionally allows use of photos by news media and by non-profit organizations, such as the Chronicle for Higher Education, Association of American Universities (AAU), and by affiliates such as the KU Endowment Association. • We request that you refrain from posting or using any photo of a classmate without his/her permission, especially if s/he is largely singled-out, identified or recognizable. • The University thanks you for participating and helping raise KU to a broader view.
